PRESIDENTS REPORT

As we know it's been a long dry summer and rain seemed to be the last thing to consider whilst camping almost anywhere in this great state of ours. That is unless you attended the Riverland Frolic at Chowilla Station near Renmark. The sudden reminder of winter camping and mud was soon brought to reality. If the Riverland 4WD club had control over the weather it would have been a perfect frolic. Everything was catered for in more ways than one. They did not miss a trick and a good time was had by all. The SAAFWDC Committee remains the same except for a vacant position for assistant secretary so if you're keen stand up and let them know.

Some of our members took a break and trip over to Port Lincoln for Easter. I know this trip was organised by the West/O'Tooles and the weather should have been fine for them. Hope to hear more about this at the next meeting.

Joyce Gray's efforts were rewarded with an outstanding attendance for a night walk around Warrawong Sanctuary. What foresight some people have to save our native fauna, it is definitely worth a visit. The night concluded at the Gray's house where a smorgasboard of Joyce's cooking delights filled the tables. Complimented by coffee, tea and port, what a way to end a stroll through nature.

Our May meeting is the AGM so fill out your nomination forms and remember to bring a plate of food to share. We have trips coming up but more would not hurt and remember Ted is holding a "Learn to Lead a Trip" day on Saturday 1st May at the DAU premises at Cavan. For details see page 9 or ring me.

That's all for now

See ya' round MOSSIAH

News In Brief

Don't forget about the "SUGGESTION BOX". If you have any ideas of where to go on a trip but do not want to be involved in orgranising it, please put your ideas in here. We are trying to share the load around to everyone so we are all actively involved in this great club.

The Mt Lofty Rangers Web Site is up and running. If you have access to the Internet the address is:

Congratulations to Lynette and Tim Byrne on the news of their pregnancy. The new sibling for Samuel is due in early September.

Congratulations also to Margaret Bal on the sale of the Cake Shop. Enjoy your well deserved break and good luck with your future endeavours.

For those of you who attended the Clayton Raft Race and purchased at the Sausage Sizzle, the Subaru Club donated $152 towards the Royal Flying Doctor Service from the money raised. A job well done!

Spies tell me a certain Presidents wife won a nationwide recipe competition with Master Foods Australia. 1 of 5 winning entries was "Linda's Mustard Chive Chicken". Congratulations Linda, but where's the recipe?

CONFESSIONS OF A 4WD CONVERT

I have gone over to the dark side. I have fraternised with fiends, rubbed shoulders with agents of evil and moved among the children and parents of the damned (annoying.) For we own a 4WD.

It all began when it was time to sell the station wagon. His eyes misted over and he started muttering words like "The Gibson Desert. The Gun Barrel Highway."

I blame his mate Dennis. Once, while crossing the Simpson Desert and before UHF radios, Dennis does in the back wheel bearing on his Toyota Land Cruiser. He carves a new one out of a bit of mulga. Gets out. No kidding. He's the sort of bloke, who would sleep with his head on an echidna, gut a rabbit with his teeth and change the sump oil with a straw. So we get a 4WD.

Now I'm living with New Car Man. He frisks the kids for doughnuts before they get in the car. Crumbs, apparently, can destroy a new 4WD.

I'm allowed to drive the new 4WD to the supermarket if I park 3km away and lug supplies over land. Car doors, it seems, can destroy a 4WD.

Out driving, New Car Man is tense. There's a rattle. Rattles can destroy a 4WD. The whole family, including kids' friends, spends an hour impersonating Spiderman holding things in place. New Car Man finds the rattle. It's the car keys. We momentarily consider driving him to the Simpson Desert and leaving him there.

One day I bump over a pothole with New Car Man on board. He complains. Next thing I drive under a tree. He goes ballistic. "You've scratched the duco," he gasps. I react. "You want to take this car into the Outback. I'll be damned if I'm gonna spring the length of the Gun Barrel Highway holding back branches so that you don't scratch the duco. And I'm not crossing the Simpson Desert ahead of you filling in pot holes either."

JULY 1999

GERANIUM - 3rd - 4th

Stay at "Dorado Downs" approx. 190 East of Adelaide. Mallee scrub with sand tracks, good for those needing the sand driving of their basic 4WD course. Shower, flushing toilet, hot water and shed for inclement weather. Nice camping but be self sufficient. Details: Peter Graham 8278 2787 AH

A strained truce settles on the family as the 4WD clocks up kilometres on the bitumen. Twelve months later New Car Man bursts in the door grinning. "We're goin' off road," he enthuses, "on an organised day trip".

At the rendezvous point, there are 11 4WDs. And everyone's talkin' the talk. "We've done the Gibba. And Coopers. And Strzelecki." It was a little embarrassing. We'd only braved the supermarket car park. At last. But don't belittle car parks. They can be treacherous. Some of them have such low entrances, you could lose the sun roof.

I learnt a whole new language that day. From the itinerary. TL. Turn Left. PSA. That's the Prostate Specific Antigen. The test for cancer. In the Outback? "This is taking self-sufficiency too far," I thought. But PSA stands for proceed straight ahead.

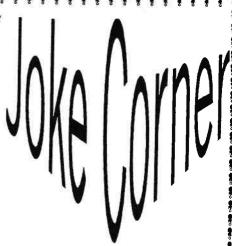

We did. In convoy. Once off road, it kicked up some dust too. I felt as if we were on safari in the Sahara until a Ford Festiva drove out of the dust cloud. Thew we hit the 4WD track. And New Car Man turned in a split second into Off Road Man. He, the protector of duco, became instantly willing to drive the car and the entire family off a cliff. No worries.

"Don't go down there," I gasped. I'm talking creek bed surface followed by a vertical drop. But the convoy rules. The family assumed the Spiderman position (Thank god, we'd had some practice.) and Off Road man took

With Mother's Day coming I'm sure this thought has crossed all Mother's minds at some stage.

The mother of three notoriously unruly youngsters was asked whether or not she'd have children if she had it to do over again.

"Sure," she replied,
"but not the same ones."

off. We bounced. We rocked. We rolled. Rattles nothing. The whole car creaked like an old sailing ship. I learnt heaps that day. I learnt that a convoy takes eight hours to cover a distance you'd do in two hours at a brisk walk because you mostly stand around discussing the track ahead. I learnt you must have the right equipment. At the picnic, for instance, you should have a fridge the size of a small car. And I learnt that a "bit of a bog", as described by an experienced leader like Aubrey, is probably so deep you'll lose the first three cars. The rest drive over the roofs.

The bog split the convoy. There were the off-road cowboys. Overcome with mud lust, they went in skidding and came out looking like 4WD lamingtons. The rest of the convoy, including us, weren't interested in driving home with 2 tonnes of mud under the car. We did a few minor puddles later.

On the way home we felt pure. We no longer belonged to that annoying 4WD brigade that never goes off road. We had done it. We passed a pristine Nissan Patrol. Duco gleaming. I felt like winding down the window and yelling: "Wanker. Look at this. Real mud!" And I knew, if there was ever a flash flood in the supermarket car park, we would survive. No worries, mate.

72 TURNERS AVENUE HAWTHORNDENE SA 5051 A friend of mine, an opal-miner, and his wife drove up to Andamooka. This was in the good old days when Woomera was still off limits and you had to go via Arcoona and Andamooka homesteads. It had been raining before and they promptly got bogged. He goes out to push and after a while they got mobile again. With the car slowly moving forward, wheels spinning madly, he takes a breather and walks next to the car. His wife poked her head out of the window and asked, "Darling (they hadn't been married long), how come I'm doing 30 miles an hour and you can just walk next to the car?"

Wanted Wanted Wanted

Ladies

Do you want a great, relaxing time with no men, no kids, no 4x4s?

Fancy a trip to Wirrina Cove Resort?
This is a trip with a difference!

It is for ladies only, and it is planned that you get to do whatever you want, you can join in playing tennis, go for a swim, sauna, walking, trips to local antique shops, or just sit on the balcony and read a book.

The trip is proposed for 14th August, and will include accommodation for Saturday night, dinner in the restaurant, and a cooked breakfast. Also included is the use of swimming pool, sauna. (Some activities will incur an additional cost)

The cost is $94 per person (twin share), or $83 per person (3 single beds in a room). Bring along a bottle of whatever and some nibbles for pre and after dinner drinks. A 20% deposit is required to secure your room. You will need to indicate your interest and whether you require a two bed or three bed room on the trip noticeboard.

The 4WD Code of Ethics

- 1. Keep to the laws and regulations for 4 wheel drive vehicles (they may change from State to State).
- 2. Keep to constructed vehicle tracks Do not drive "off-road".
- 3. Keep the environment clean. Carry your own and maybe other people's rubbish home.
- 4. Obey restrictions on use of public lands. Respect national parks and other conservation areas.
- 5. Obtain permission before driving on private land. Leave livestock alone and gates as found.
- 6. Keep your vehicle mechanically sound.
- 7. Take adequate water, food, fuel and spares on trips. In remote areas travel with another vehicle.
- 8. Respect our wildlife. Stop and look, but never disturb or chase animals.
- 9. Respect other recreationalists' rights to peace and solitude in the bush.
- 10. Obey all fire restrictions. Extinguish you fire before leaving. Don't let your exhaust emit sparks.
- 11. Help in bushfire emergencies, search and rescue if properly equipped and able.
- 12. Join a 4 wheel drive club and support 4 wheel drive touring as a responsible and legitimate recreational activity.
