Opportunity... what is opportunity - a time or set of circumstances that makes it possible to do something. I have been reflecting recently and was thinking about the number of opportunities that I have been presented through my life and how many of those I actually embraced which in turn had an impact on my life. Sitting alongside opportunity comes choices. You reach the fork in the road, which way do you go. We all have them and I am sure we have all made good choices and not so good choices. So, where am I going with this, nowhere really, I'd just say be brave, if an opportunity presents itself, embrace it for what it is, remember you may not get the chance to do that ever again which then leads to regret which is an entirely different journey.

Moving right along...as I write this I note that the year is rapidly coming to a close, with only two more meetings then it's the Christmas break. I am pleased to announce that someone answered the call to drive the MLR Silver Jubilee bus, thanks Chris for stepping up. Based on what I have heard to date we have some good things in the pipeline, which of course will require your support.

Speaking of subcommittees, the MLR members of the Octoberfest subcommittee recently gathered at my place for a lessons / reflection activity. In short, we have decided that MLR will take a break from organising an event in 2021 and have notified 4WDSA to that end. We have offered support to anyone who may want to pick up the ball and run with it. Similarly, we toyed with the idea of running an event just for MLR members that we may pilot next year, so standby for more information on what that may look like, but I'm excited.

On Octoberfest, due to the increased numbers and excellent raffle ticket sales, the event generated a healthy profit (contrary to everyone's expectations). The MLR committee discussed options regarding what we might do with the funds remembering we didn't run the event to make a profit. The bottom line is we will make a $4000 to the RFDS and $2000 to Beyond Blue and keep a small amount in reserve for seed funding for the next event should we decide to conduct one in the future. Well-done and thankyou to all who made this possible.

Drum banging time... don't forget:

- MLR Christmas at Avoca Dell ($20 refundable deposit per car required at the Nov meeting)
- Anaconda for discounts and Pizza, Wed 20 Nov.
- Evil Santa for our Dec meeting.
- Beachport have you booked your site yet?

Next Meetings:

Next monthly meeting is 11th November (Armistice day)

Next committee meeting 25th November (1 month to Christmas)

Word of the Month:

In keeping with the current theme (check out the previous months)...

Honorificabilitudinitatibus - longest word with alternating consonants and vowels - a twenty-seven-letter way of saying "with honorableness."*

OCTOBERFEST

Octoberfest –Mena Mora 2019

Bunbinyunna Track- Trip leaders Neil Stokes and Pam Wheare

The typical Flinders view

Sunday morning saw 3 groups set off for this popular trail on Mena Mora property. Our group of 11 had cars from Nissan Patrol and Adventurers Club as well as MLR, all ready for a challenge. The track has several areas where cars climb steep hills and after the first stop and photo opportunity, drivers were saying WOW that's fun. As we travelled to lookouts and a section of uphill track requiring the driver to calmly follow their training, they were smiling at the views from the top.

Death Valley (USA) vs Simpson Desert (AUSTRALIA)

some interesting comparisons

Courtesy of Rob & Trish Dagri

On our recent 41 day trip to the USA, Cancun and Canada we included a self-drive route along the coast road from Los Angeles to San Francisco on the Californian coast road and then from San Francisco to Las Vegas. It was a most pleasant drive along the coast road with a 1 night stopover in Santa Barbara and Monterey. A very winding road in sections with the possibility of road closure due to rock slides. Fortunate for us the road was “open”. Upon our arrival at San Francisco after viewing the news, we discovered whilst we were on the highway there was a 6.4 earthquake in a place called Ridgecrest which is basically in between Los Angeles and Las Vegas.

After the 6.4 earthquake there was a second one at 7.2 which was felt all the way to Las Vegas.

Our initial plan was to drive through the centre of Yosemite National Park, a very winding road, through the Tioga Pass, but this route would have lead us close to Ridgecrest, where they were to experience many an aftershock! We decided to just do the scenic drive from San Francisco through the upper section of Yosemite National Park to a town called Bishop, driving a total of 475 kms for the day. Our journey the next day from Bishop through the Death Valley National Park to Las Vegas was 428 kms.

Death Valley is a desert valley located in Eastern California in the northern Mojave Desert. The size of Death Valley is 13,628 square kilometres, the largest national park in the lower 48 states and has nearly 1,600 km of roads that provide access to both popular and remote locations in the park. One million visitors visit the park each year.

It has history of being one of the hottest places in the world. In this below sea level basin, steady drought and record summer heat make Death Valley a land of extremes. On July 10, 1913 a high temperature of 56.7 degrees C was recorded at Furnace Creek, but amazingly snow frosts the park's towering peaks. Sand dunes are only a small part of this park.

The Simpson Desert is located mainly in the south eastern corner of Northern Territory, it overlaps into Queensland and South Australia. It is largely an uninhabited arid region covering some 143,000 square km. It boasts the longest parallel dunes in the world running northwest to southeast 450 metres apart and 20-37 metres high with some dunes up to 160 km long. The estimated number of parallel dunes is 1100 + with BIG RED the tallest dune at 40 metres high.

The Simpson Desert has summer high temperatures of approx. 36 degrees C although temperatures can soar to 50 degrees C and large sand storms are common.

A wide-angle photograph showing a vast field of yellow wildflowers in the foreground, leading up to a range of rugged, reddish-brown mountains in the background. The sky is clear and blue.

The desert's climate is exceedingly dry, with most parts receiving 125mm of precipitation or less annually. A distinctive feature is periodic temporary flooding in some areas, caused by rainfall outside the region that flows into the desert. Grass of the genus Triodia (Spinifex) grows between the dune crests. There are mulga trees and immediately following a rare shower, an abundance of wildflowers appear.

The Simpson is the last refuge of some rare Australian desert animals, including the fat-tailed marsupial mouse. It is home to 200 bird species, at least 34 native mammals, 22 amphibians, 13 fish and 125 reptile species. A total of 780 species of plant from 75 families have been recorded for the Simpson Desert.

Salt lakes did exist in Death Valley between 60,000 and 35,000 years ago, but following a huge rain storm a 16 kilometre lake just popped up!

There are 9 lakes in the Simpson Desert.

DEATH VALLEY:

In late August 2019 a tourist died while visiting Death Valley amid blazing summer heat the second death in three days! Two of the most common reasons for deaths are single vehicle accidents and heat illness.

SIMPSON DESERT:

In November 2012 men got bogged near Ethabuka Station in far western Queensland. One man 25 years old died as they tried to get back to civilisation in temperatures well in excess of 40 degrees C. Another was found close to death.

Simpson Desert parks in South Australia and Queensland are closed in summer from 1st December to 15th March each year.

Air Force pilots in training fly their fighter jet through these mountains. Star Wars movie filmed out here also.

Hot inland but snow still on the mountain peaks!

Unfortunately, we did not have the time to drive into some of the sights within Death Valley National Park but it was an awesome experience seeing what we could in the time frame we had.

10 Christmas Gifts for 4wders (you can't go wrong with these!)

ARB Ez-Deflator

There are plenty of similar designs of tyre deflator on the market, but the ARB Ez-Deflator is the one I have personal experience with. It's quick, it's accurate and it's red (I guess that's what makes it quick). RRP is $74.55.

Ridge Ryder Tyre Repair Kit

Another piece of gear which calls my vehicle toolbox home. It comes with an epic 20 tyre repair cords, spare valve cores, valve tool, rubber cement and patches for tubed tyres, bike tyres and the like, a pressure gauge and of course the reaming and inserting tools made entirely of metal. No plastic crap here. Should cost you around $45 from Supercheap Auto.

Traction Boards

There's two brands worth mentioning here. TREDs and Maxtrax; both are great products, anything else (that I've seen anyway) is pretty average. The great thing about these is that even if the person being gifted already has a set, another set will only add to their usefulness. Just make sure you get the same brand if they already have a pair. Maxtrax have an RRP of $299 while TRED start at $179.

Snatch Strap

If they're new to 4wding, they're going to need one of these. Snatch straps are a consumable item anyway, so even if they already have one, it's going to be due for replacement after heavy use. Which one should you buy? The strap should be rated for 2-3 times the weight of the vehicle. A 5000kg strap is ideal for small suzuki's and light/unladen utes. An 8000kg strap will be good for the average patrol or landcruiser, heavily loaded utes or vehicles towing a trailer would be better suited to a 15,000kg.

All 4 Adventure DVD's

There are many different series and shows related to 4wd adventures, and what one 4wder loves – another may hate. Not so with All 4 Adventure, everyone loves these guys! They are currently up to season 6, and prices vary greatly depending on how many seasons you want to purchase.

Save Your Ass Kit

This isn't something you can buy off the shelf, which is what makes it so special! Go to an auto parts store and grab a small tool box or bag; and fill it with things like SOS rescue tape, Quicksteel, WD40, vice grips, electrical tape, Chemiweld, superglue, fuses, a knife, hose clamps and any other handy bits that you think could get a vehicle out of trouble. Leave that in the vehicle and they're prepared to fix all sorts of problems track side!

BOG OUT

It gets you out of a bog. By yourself. This one is a relatively new player to the market, bloody awesome idea too. You tie what looks like a rope ladder onto your wheel, anchor the other end to something solid, just as you would a winch, and just drive out using your wheels as winches. Much cheaper than a winch too, starting at $159 from the BOG OUT website, and also available through select TJM and Australian Off Road stores. www.bogout.com

Travel Buddy 12V Oven

Whether it's a weekend away, a year around the country, or just a day trip; every 4wder would LOVE one of these. Starting at $215; these 12 or 24 volt ovens will reheat a meal, heat your pies and sausage rolls, cook a roast or even bake a cake. The smaller 12 volt oven heats to 175 degrees Celsius, while the larger 12 volt marine model gives you more space and heats to 190. Purchase online through their website: 12-24voltovens.com.au

Bushranger Digger Shovel

Bushranger Digger Shovel

You really want a good long handled shovel if you get yourself in the poo out there, don't wanna be rolling in it trying to make do with a trowel! But long handled shovels are a pain in the arse to store if you don't have a roof rack. That's why I ended up with the Digger shovel myself. It comes in a bag with a long handle which screws on, or a D handle to use it as a regular sized shovel. It'll set you back about $88 and is available through ARB outlets, Repco and other 4wd stores. www.bushranger.com.au

Korr LED Strip Light

Generally I wouldn't advise buying lights, as 4wders are picky with that stuff. Unless you know for sure that they want a 22 inch light bar instead of a 21 inch, go with some stick on LED strip light; 4wders can always find more applications for this stuff. Don't be a tight arse like I did and get a 5 metre roll for 10 bucks, it lasts 5 minutes. Korr Lighting has some quality gear.
