PEAKE 2022

June 2022

mountloftyrangers.com.au

Our values

- FRIENDLY AND INCLUSIVE
- PARTICIPATION IS ENCOURAGED
- BEING RESPECTFUL TO EACH OTHER AND THE ENVIRONMENT
- VISIBLE AND TRANSPARENT
- TO UPHOLD THE EXCELLENT REPUTATION OF MOUNT LOFTY RANGERS 4WD CLUB

Phils Presidential Phinkings

As I sit down to write this, my first thoughts as President, I first would like to sincerely thank Gary and the other outgoing committee members for the work they have done for the club. I appreciate the efforts everyone has made to handover their particular office. As a result, I left the first meeting of the new committee with a certain enthusiasm. I hope we can keep the same good vibe flowing as the new committee continues on and adds to the efforts, with their own new ideas and enthusiasm.

Phil Simes, President

I've not identified any drastic changes to how the club runs, however, I have looked back at what originally attracted me to the club and that is, trips, activities and a welcoming, inclusive atmosphere. If we can get that part right, the rest will fall into place.

To help foster that sort of atmosphere, we will putting some emphasis on trip reports, both at the club meetings and in the magazine. The trip leader will be ultimately responsible for producing the trip report, however they may wish to delegate this duty to someone else on the trip. A common way of this has been done in the past is for it to be delegated to the last person to arrive for a trip, or depending on the trip, the first or best effort at getting stuck. Either way, I will be expecting a trip report submitted for the magazine, and someone from the trip to stand up at the next club meeting and give the other members an overview, of how the trip went, highlights and what the rest of us missed out on. Please don't feel intimidated by the idea of standing up and talking to the club. Just imagine you're chatting, over a drink or two, telling a few friends about your recent weekend.

Phils Presidential Phinkings

The other thing I'd like to suggest, is to say hi to someone at the club meeting that you either don't know, or perhaps haven't spoken to for some time.

I'm hopeless with names, so I'll be doing that exact thing and probably needing to ask half of you to remind me what your name is. I suspect this will become some sort of running joke while I'm in office.

So even though winter has certainly made itself obvious over recent weeks, that also means it's the perfect time to head into our regional areas explore a little and kick back next to a camp fire.

Please consider showing a few club members your favourite weekend camp spot, or that place somewhere new, that you've not quite managed to get to yet. If you're unsure about what involved in leading a trip, just have a chat to myself, or any of the committee members. It's not as difficult as you might think.

I look forward to having a chat to you, next to a campfire, soon.

Phil.

PEAKE 2022

So here's the thing – because there's always a thing right.

It was dark but I followed the instructions – turned left at the pub in Peake and travelled approx. 4.0km. I turned into the property and drove slowly past the homestead, turned left past the sheds and then right leaving gates as I found them. 15 minutes later there were no sand hills or campers, but a very one sided conversation with a paddock full of sheep who gave me baa nothing.

I discovered I was on the wrong property – I had to follow my tracks back out – remember it is night time - past the sheds leaving the gates as I found them and past the homestead slowly but this time in stealth mode so I didn't get shot at for being some Brazen Random driving around on private property with his spot lights on doing circles in paddocks trying to find where his crew was at.

I made some phone calls and got the newly elected who used his presidential skills to navigate me to the correct property which it so happens did have sand hills – which was closer to 3.6km from Peake just quietly.

Naturally there was the appropriate amount of banter for my additional adventures but I was pleased that my antics ended at a warm fire, a bevvie and with some quality people.

Trip Report

After a chilly nights sleep it was time to play in the sand hills. This is where you can put your training into practice, explore your vehicle's 4wding options and hone your skills knowing there was plenty of support if you needed some assistance.

There were some fantastic opportunities from replacing a tire that had come off its bead on top of a sand dune, using spades and traction boards, snatch straps and winching all in real life settings. I think all of the crew needed assistance at least once although a certain silver FJ Cruiser seemed to benefit probably a little more than most. Being able to just stop, step back, discuss what the options were and then stick to the plan. Clear communication just like what was taught in the training fostered confidence when it came to controlled vehicle recovery.

The property is large and so the 18 vehicles that attended were able to split into two groups (one for training and one for playing) and then spread out into different areas on the property and we wouldn't see the other group again until meeting back at camp for either lunch or dinner.

The weather was perfect for sand driving. The camp setting, camp fires, star filled night sky, lots of food passed around as we socialised at the end of the day to talk about the days adventures all added to a really relaxed weekend.

The other bonus was the property is only 1.5hrs from Adelaide.

I would encourage you to put this trip on your yearly adventures.

Cheers, Richard Stanley

FJ Cruiser - it's all about the adventure.

IS YOUR UHF LEGAL?

Why are Imported Radios Illegal to use in Australia?

Australia has stringent laws for two-way radios. This includes the testing and approval of hardware including the transmit and receive stages for approved operation complying to Australian specifications from the ACMA (Australian Government) for the safe operations of radio transmitters.

Each two-way radio must undergo expensive type approval tests to ensure it does not exceed normal radiation standards and to ensure safety whilst operating the device.

If a radio has not been approved then it is instantly ILLEGAL to own and operate in Australia.

These illegal unapproved two-way radios pose a significant risk to public safety, not only are they often programmed illegally to the same frequencies as those used by the Police, Fire & Ambulance services and Licensed Private Frequencies but also because the radios sometimes transmit across multiple frequencies because they are cheap and badly designed.

As of January 2007 the maximum penalties for the misuse of the legally allocated CB emergency channels are:

- For general misuse – if an individual 2 years imprisonment, otherwise $165,000 (a $220 on-the-spot fine can be issued in minor cases per radio); or

- For interference to an Emergency call – if an individual 5 years imprisonment, otherwise $550,000

All Baofeng radios are illegal to use in Australia. Most of these radios come in illegally and are programmed with Police and other frequencies that interfere with licensed users and Public Safety Radios.

Unless you transmit on the free 80 channels of UHF CB channels only, you will need a private license for any other frequency. You cannot have an illegal radio programmed for Australian frequencies.

- Do not buy new two-way radios or walkie talkies off ebay, Amazon, Wish, China or USA. They will be illegal.
- Only buy from an authorised Australian Company.
- Some ebay sites say that they are in Australia but are from China making them illegal.
- Grey imports are products and brand names brought into Australia; they have no Australian warranty and will have non-approved frequencies for Australian use. These are illegal and you purchase at your own risk and without any comeback/warrant.
